

RECORD-BROKEN
FOR BUILDINGSYesterday Biggest Day Ever
Known in the Inspector's
Office.

UTAH HOTEL PERMIT ISSUED

BUILDINGS RECORDED TOTAL IN VALUE $1,295,800.

With the issuing of permits yesterday for the building of the Utah hotel at Main and South Temple streets and for the first wing of an apartment by the Covey Investment company on South Temple and A streets—these two aggregating $1,295,800—building permits for the year took a jump to approximately $2,500,000 more than for the same period last year.

The permits issued yesterday totaled $1,295,800. For the whole month of August last year permits were issued with a valuation of $388,000, making the record up to the closing of Building Inspector A. B. Hirth's office yesterday $807,800 more than for the whole month a year ago.

Building Inspector Hirth had been telling of some big permits to come, and they developed yesterday when the permits for the Utah hotel company for its ten-story structure at Main and South Temple streets was issued for $1,200,000. Only a few minutes before the Covey Investment company was issued a permit for its apartment house. This will be finished this year, it is said, and work on the other two wings will be finished next year. It is the purpose of the investment company to spend in the neighborhood of $2,500,000 before completing their apartment house.

The Utah Hotel.

The Utah hotel will have a frontage of 35 feet on Main street and 195 feet on South Temple. Parkinson and Bergstrom, a Los Angeles firm of architects, drew the plans. Stores will be given space on the ground floor, but the other nine floors will be devoted to rooms, of which there will be 36. The plan is to have this building completed next year. The foundations will be laid this fall and part of the skeleton steel work will be set in place before the weather gets too bad for building.

Besides the record for the building inspector's office, and the boom it will give Salt Lake, the day was a good one in fees. There was $252.50 taken in, the largest amount for any one day in the history of the office.

"That is going some," said Building Inspector Hirth yesterday when he was in his office, "but there is more to come. From present indications this month will be far away larger than any other month in the history of the office. I know of other buildings which are to come in for permits within the next few days, and by next Tuesday at noon, when the month closes, I expect to have issued permits for buildings valued at least at $500,000 more."

New Record for City.

For all of 1908 the valuation of the building permits amounted to about $4,500,000, establishing a new record for Salt Lake. The total for 1909 has now reached within a few thousands of the $5,000,000, and it is expected that the total permits for the year will be at least $2,500,000 more than the record of a year ago. The buildings have not been all large, but there have been a much greater number of small business structures, running from $10,000 to $50,000, and more homes than ever before. The permits yesterday were issued as follows:

Covey Investment company, seven-story, 17-room brick apartment house, 350 East South Temple street, $1,200,000.
Utah hotel company, ten-story, 350-room brick and terra cotta hotel and store room, Main and South Temple streets, $1,200,000.
J. J. Spill, one-story terrace, twenty rooms, 25-15 North West Temple street, $82,000.
Utah State fair association, poultry building at fair grounds, $8,000.
A. E. Young, four-room brick dwelling, 1723 Lake street, $2,500.
S. C. Salmon, two-room frame dwelling, 106 West 10th avenue, $300.
John Anderson, four-room cement block dwelling, 1141 West Pacific avenue, $1,500.
